OSU Education Professor Becomes Dean Here Sept. 1

Dr. Theodore J. Jenson, professor of education and chairman of the department of education at Ohio State University, has been named dean of the College of Education here, the appointment to become effective September 1.

The new dean, who will be the fifth man in the history of the University to hold this position, will succeed Dean William E. Harrington. Dr. Harrington plans to devote full time to teaching.

As top administrative officer in Bowling Green's College of Education, Dr. Jenson will guide the work and activities of more than 125 faculty members and more than 4,500 students.

Citing Dr. Jenson's qualifications for the deanship, Dr. Paul F. Leedy, provost, said Dr. Jenson has an exceptionally strong background in educational administration, with broad teaching and administrative experience.

Dr. Jenson's broad research activity has included work in the role of the superintendent in improving instruction; recognition of teacher competency through salary provisions; the role of the staff in cooperation with boards of education in the formation of personnel policies; and the use of community opinion leaders in the improvement of education.

Dr. Jenson has authored or co-authored more than 40 books, chapters, pamphlets, and articles.

His latest book, in its second edition this year, is "Educational Administration: The Secondary School," which he wrote in collaboration with two other members of the Ohio State faculty.

A native of New Richmond, Wisconsin, Dr. Jenson received the bachelor degree from the University of Chicago and the master's and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

Before joining the Ohio State faculty, Dr. Jenson had teaching experience in the public schools of Wisconsin, and served on the faculties of Wisconsin State College, the University of Wisconsin, and Northwestern University.

In 1954 he served as an educational consultant to the West German government.

Dr. Jenson, 59, is married and the father of a son and a daughter.

NDEA Aids 39 Teachers

Classes began Monday for 39 participants in a seven-week summer institute for area teachers of culturally disadvantaged youth.

The program, sponsored by the National Defense Education Act, is designed to provide beginning sixth, seventh, and eighth grade instructors, all of whom are under contract to teach in Cleveland or Toledo schools this fall, with methods of teaching disadvantaged children.

The main goal of the institute is to provide the participants with practical experience and discussion, according to Dr. F. James Rybak, associate professor of education and director of the institute.

The participants will spend about 16 hours a week as staff associates in community centers, reading programs, nursery schools, and other programs with social agency directors. The teachers will work directly with children and adults in the communities.

Dr. Rybak said this practical experience solves two problems.

"First, it is needed to help solve problems of insight into the peculiarities of cultural malnutrition," he said. "It also is needed to solve problems of the teachers' own cultural development and middle-class norms which make them unable to accept the information they have about the disadvantaged."

Participants in the program have been awarded stipends by the NDEA of $75 per week plus allowances for dependents.

War Orphan Blanks Must Be Filed Soon

Students who are entitled to War Orphan benefits under Public Law 634, and who are enrolled for the first summer session, must complete their enrollment forms if they haven't already done so. Forms may be secured from Miss Karel S. King in the Placement Office, 516 Administration Bldg.

Speaks Here Tomorrow

Anthropologist Mead Opens Lecture Series

University To Give Honorary Degree

Dr. Margaret Mead, internationally-known and award-winning anthropologist, author, and lecturer will speak here tomorrow. She also will be presented with an honorary degree by the University.

Considered a specialist in the study of family life, Dr. Mead will discuss "The Changing American Family" at 3:30 p.m. in the ballroom. Afterward, she will be presented for her honorary doctor of humane letters degree by Dr. Mary A. Watt, professor of health and physical education. University President William T. Jerome will make the presentation.

An author of 13 books, Dr. Mead has studied the cultures of and made expeditions to the South Seas Island including New Guinea, Samoa, Bali, and Iatmul.

Dr. Mead's speech will be the first of a six-part summer lecture series entitled "The Family." Dr. Donald Longworth, professor of sociology and coordinator of the lecture series, said Dr. Mead is considered an expert in the areas of education and culture, personality and culture, mental health, family life, cross-national relations, and cultural change.

Dr. Mead has held the positions of director of Research in Contemporary Cultures at Columbia University, Executive Secretary of the Committee of Food Habits of the National Research Council, Director of the Studies in Contemporary Culture for the American Museum of Natural History and is presently serving the museum as Curator of Ethnology.

She also has been a lecturer at more than 12 universities during her 40-year academic career and is presently an Adjunct Professor of Anthropology at Columbia and Visiting Professor of Anthropology at the University of Cincinnati.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Mead received a bachelor of arts degree from Barnard College in 1923 and a master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from Columbia in 1924 and 1929 respectively.

The purpose of the lecture series is to "enrich and expand the course offerings in summer," Dr. Longworth said. He said the idea of the series being held in the summer appeals to him since more well-known lecturers are available. He predicted that this first attempt by the University at summer lectures will be continued in future years if it is well accepted and attended by students and faculty. Admission for both the speech and degree presentation is free, Dr. Longworth said.

It's A Holiday

University Vice President Kenneth McFall announced last week that since Monday, July 5, is a national holiday, no classes will be held on that day, and all University offices will be closed.

Exhibition Features Local Artists' Work

A collection of art work by two local artists is currently on display in the Promenade Lounge of the Union. The exhibit is the work of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harper of Napoleon.

Included in the exhibit are 35 color photographs taken by Mr. Harper, many of the western and southwestern United States.

An award-winning artist, Mrs. Harper has 21 watercolor paintings in the show along with works of tile, enamel, flax, and jewelry. Also included is a design created by Mrs. Harper called "gloom chasers," leaded stained glass which hangs from the ceiling.

The exhibit will be in the Union until July 12 and may be viewed during the hours that the Union is open.

New Council Forms To Aid Promotion Of Special Projects

A newly-created Development Council has been formed "to assist in developing programs for the enrichment of the academic, aesthetic, and cultural areas of the University," according to Charles E. Perry, director of development and executive director of the Council.

The council has accepted a $30,000 gift from the Bowling Green Alumni Association as part of its first project, directing the Library Gift Campaign. The money will be used to furnish a lounge area in the new nine-story Library which is now under construction.

The actual building will be financed through funds from State Issue No. 1 passed in 1963 and from the federal government's Higher Educational Facilities Act.

"However, that part of the Library which will be an enriching experience for students, provide reference materials for faculty and graduate students, and serve as a valuable source of knowledge for individuals and groups outside of the University, must be supported through private contributions," Mr. Perry explained.

The Council, Mr. Perry said, also will provide "an avenue by which the thinking of alumni and citizens of the northwestern Ohio community can be utilized in the future development of the University."

Represented on the council are the Board of Trustees, the Alumni Association, and community leaders of northwestern Ohio.

Candidates for August graduation are advised to come to the University Bookstore in the Union to have their measurements taken for cap and gown. No cash deposit is required at this time.

JOE and PENNY ARONSON, folk singers and satirists, provided a lively evening's entertainment for about 400 enthusiastic spectators last Saturday night. During their two and a half hour show, their material varied from an Israeli wedding song to a political parody of a Pennsylvania Dutch sing-along. At the end of the performance, the crowd gave them a well-deserved standing ovation. This was the first in a series of programs being sponsored this summer by the Union Activities Organization.

6 Summer Housing Units Open

In an effort to concentrate all students in one section of the campus, summer housing for undergraduates has been limited to Harshman Quadrangle and Conklin Hall.

Also in use this summer for special events are Prout Hall and East Hall.

Women are living in a section of Conklin and Units C and D of Harshman; men are living in Units A and B. Harshman's central dining hall is being used for these students.

The head residents are Mrs. Kathryn R. Heineman, Unit C; Mrs. Elizabeth Stockdale, Unit D; Mrs. Maurine L. Zimmerman, Conklin; Neal E. Allen, Unit A; and Carl E. Schwobel, Unit B.

Prout Hall will be used to house persons here for conventions, conferences, and institutes throughout the summer. The head resident is Paul N. Windisch.

At present, over 100 persons participating in mathematics and chemistry institutes are being housed there.

When freshman pre-registration begins July 19, entering students and their parents will be housed in East Hall, MacDonald Quadrangle. Thomas Hay will be the head resident. Meals will be served in the ballroom and the Nest.

HOUSING APPLICATIONS

The Housing Office is now accepting applications for second session on-campus housing.

Robert G. Rudd, director of residence hall services, announced that those students who have not yet applied for second session housing and wish to live on-campus should apply as soon as possible in the Housing Office, 133 Administration Bldg.

Students To Stage 7 Plays At Huron Summer Workshop

The Huron Summer Theater Workshop, boasted as one of Ohio's oldest continuing summer theaters, began its seventeenth season Monday. The summer workshop, held at the playhouse in the Lake Erie community of Huron, is directed by Dr. Allen N. Kepke, University speech instructor.

The workshop, which runs until August 14, offers educational experience in dramatic arts for the students selected to participate.

Dr. Kepke stated that no more than 30 students are chosen each year from colleges and universities throughout the country. They are selected on the basis of interest, scholarship, experience, and character recommendations. Of the 27 enrolled this summer, 12 are from the University.

A new show opens every Tuesday and closes the following Saturday.

Everyone works on the productions, Dr. Kepke said. A student may do anything from stuffing envelopes and delivering posters to playing lead roles and participating in television interviews.

"We all work from 8:30 a.m. to 11 p.m., six days a week. Sundays are free. It's hectic," he said, "but fun."

The Huron Playhouse is a top-notch educational summer theater which gives the student intensive practice and study in all phases of the theater, said Dr. Kepke.

Seats for all performances are reserved. Tickets may be obtained by writing to the Huron Playhouse, Huron, or by calling 433-4744. Curtain is 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and $.50 for children.

"We draw audiences from as far away as Toledo and Cleveland," Dr. Kepke commented.

Productions to be offered this summer are: July 6-10, "Anniversary Waltz"; July 13-17, "A Man For All Seasons"; July 20-25, "The Music Man"; July 27-31, "Blithe Spirit"; August 3-7, "Harvey"; August 10-14, "The Fantastics"; and August 13 and 14 matinee, "The Wizard of Oz."

Senior Credentials Due

Seniors in the College of Education who are planning to graduate in August must file their credentials with the Placement Office before they leave campus. The deadline for filing is August 15.

Good Greens, Fair Fairways

New Campus Golf Course Opens

To many students and faculty it may seem unimportant, but to the golf buff it means Bowling Green is a joyous place indeed. It is, of course, the University's new nine-hole golf course, located east of Yount Road, which opened officially June 7.

Using the distances from standard tees, the nine-hole course covers 3,281 yards. Also available are distances from championship tees, which extend for 3,457 yards. The longest hole on the new course is number nine, stretching 545 yards; while the fifth hole is the shortest, covering 186 yards.

"The greens are in excellent condition," says Don A. Cunningham, ham, sports information director. "However, it will take about another year for the grass in the fairways and rough areas to fully develop into really good condition."

The course will be open every day from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Students with identification cards may play nine holes for $1 and 18 holes for $1.50. Special faculty rates for the same number of holes are $1.25 and $1.75. The standard rates for the general public are $2 and $3 respectively. There also are reduced rates for members of Bowling Green alumni and parents clubs.

Golf clubs are available for rent at the pro shop, which is located on Poe Road several yards east of the intersection of Poe and Yount Roads. Golf supplies and refreshments also are sold at the shop.

Directing the course facilities and management is golf pro James Richardson. Mr. Richardson was graduated from Miami University in 1953 and for several months afterwards played on the professional golf tour. Since 1955 he has taught school in the winter and served as a golf pro at various country clubs, including Sylvania, Bowling Green, and Sunnybrook.

Tennis Match Entries Due

Entries for the summer school's first session tennis tournament are due in the intramural office of the men's gymnasium by Tuesday, June 25.

This tournament will be open to both men's and women's singles competition. All competition will be in the single elimination form of a 10-game pro set. These tournament games will be played on the tennis courts behind the stadium.

Winners are responsible for reporting game results to the intramural office immediately after each contest.

All games will be played at 6:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. Players must provide their own equipment.

Varsity tennis players are ineligible for competition. Trophies will be presented to the individual champion in both men's and women's divisions.

Mixed Softball To Start Tuesday

A summer softball tournament for teams composed of both men and women is scheduled to begin play next Tuesday.

All games will be played at 6:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays on the intramural fields of the Sterling Farm area. Each game will last five innings.

Participating teams must have a minimum of 12 players on their rosters—six men and six women. Each team may play a game starting with not more than 10 players and not less than nine.

Priest Builds Again

Newman Club Adds New Unit

By LARRY FULLERTON
News Staff Writer

Father John Ollivier's short-lived construction career is coming to a close. With the completion of a fourth building this fall, the director of the Newman Foundation will have finished a project begun several years ago with the construction of the chapel.

The latest addition to what could be called "Newman Quadrangle" is an L-shaped building which is connected to the back of the chapel at one end and to the side of the student center at the other. It will house a library, a book store, a large hall, meeting rooms, offices, several guest rooms, classrooms, a kitchen, and a snack bar.

The new building, which covers over 14,000 square feet, was designed entirely by Father Ollivier, as were the other three buildings.

Several years ago, when the local Catholic church became overcrowded with the increasing student enrollment, it was decided to build a chapel at the Newman Center. Father Ollivier designed the building and with student help and financial assistance from the Toledo diocese, he built it.

Since then, Father Ollivier has designed and built the two-story social center and the 20-unit dormitory. Work on the new addition began in April, although most of the work has been done in the last two weeks, he said.

Students Give Aid

Working with Father Ollivier on his "construction gang" are several students who are living in the dorm this summer, an instructor from the University's industrial arts department, a high school teacher from Fostoria, a former University student, and Father Richard T. Wurzel.

Father Ollivier not only supervises the work of his "construction gang," he also pitches in and does a lion's share of the work. In a dirty tee-shirt and baggy khaki pants, he pours cement, lays bricks, cuts lumber, or does whatever has to be done at the moment.

Workers Respect Him

With a practiced eye, knowledge gained from building three other buildings, he makes his decisions quickly, but with an authority that all of the workers respect. They know who's boss.

By the end of the day, Father Ollivier's shirt is even dirtier and there is a big black spot on the seat of his pants from scooting around on the tarpaper roof.

Father Ollivier said he started the original project, building the chapel, when the need arose. Since then, he has just continued building and only the present lack of space will force him to stop the building program.

"This building should be adequate for many years to come," the energetic priest said. "If the University enrollment stops at 15,000 like the Board of Regents say, then these buildings should be sufficient."

Saves $150,000

The constructor-priest estimated that he will save about $150,000 by constructing the building himself. Father Ollivier received $50,000 from the Toledo diocese for the project.

"We manage to scrimp and cut corners a little bit. We'll make it," he said.

The interiors will be finished with either brick or paneling while the front outside will be brick, matching the other three buildings.

Hopefully, the addition will be completed by the time school opens in September.
